

The German Association for Security in Industry and Commerce cares for security in economy

The German Association for Security in Industry and Commerce cares for security in economy (ASW) represents the German economy in security issues. As a federation of regional security associations and professional associations it is nationwide present.

The protection of the German economy is the central concern of the Association. Therefore the ASW is in close interaction with the German security authorities and ensures both that information from the authorities find their way to the companies and hints from the economy arrive at the right places at the authorities. Thus, the Association has a hinge function.

To fulfill their tasks, the ASW has established various work groups and focuses on topics such as cyber security, counter-espionage services, fraud management and travel security. Thereby, the ASW enters into partnerships with other associations, safety authorities, universities and research institutions.

The ASW is based on regional security associations and national professional associations. Member of the ASW can be national organizations or associations as well as regional organizations and associations for security, as long as they represent at least a federal country.
